“No Greater Love” is a beautiful and gripping romance that has been repeated over the centuries. It will enhance your life – pulling you into its pages to experience tender love, tears, the terror and hardships of war, hope, and unspeakable joy. The novel contains true to life situations that Christians find themselves facing every day; therefore, the author recommends it for mature readers only.

The troops are coming home but will it be too late for Emily and Scott? Step into the emotional mountains and valleys of this young couple as they are torn thousands of miles apart to serve their country.

Scott and Emily fell in love at first sight while Scott was serving in the Marines. After Scott gives twelve years of service to his country, they are extremely happy to start a new life in the civilian world where everything is going great for them. With only a few weeks until his final discharge papers are to arrive, they are shocked to learn that Scott must report back for duty in the war zone.

This romance is set in the beautiful Smokey Mountains near Black Mountain, North Carolina, and in a lonely world far away where Scott goes to serve his country as a 1st Lieutenant in the United States Marines Corp. The novel will allow you to experience a few of the challenges that face a military family when their loved one is in harm’s way serving their country. It will remind you of the need and the power of prayer and it will help you understand God’s great gift of love to man.

This book is dedicated to all American men and women who are now serving, or have served, in our armed forces since the beginning of this great country and to their families who have endured hardships here at home.

We are especially grateful to those who served and came home gravely injured and for those who made the ultimate sacrifice so we might live free.

We must never forget that the price our soldiers have paid for freedom is so great it cannot be calculated.
