This book carries the following notice on it's back cover... WARNING: READER DISCRETION ADVISED! This book contains notions and ideas “unheard” before. If you tend to be allergic to out-of-the-box thinking, please abstain from reading The WRITIVIST*. In 2009, Louise Uwacu published her first book, a non-fiction memoir titled: “The Nightmare of a POSITIVISION*” and she embarked on a world tour. Her main mission was to warn her fellow Canadians and Americans, on the similarities that exist between the Rwandan society that she ran away from, and the Western society she now lives in. Louise Uwacu is a captivating and fun speaker; she has been quoted in The Guardian, The Boston Herald, The Christian Science Monitor and more. She says her main message to America is: “I would love to tell you more about how you are also living in a Dictatorship!” Louise Uwacu continues; “I have decided to publish my new message in writing instead. I imagined that if my message comes out in writing, it will reach my kind of people. The ones who read, and the ones who dream of writing. For they may not only learn about the practice of writing, self-publishing, marketing and publicity of a book, but also get to know more about what goes on behind the scenes, when one tries to communicate a labeled “provocative” message to the public through the mass media. In the process, I shall also reveal more tips on how to “Survive Peace” during the upcoming “unpredicted” sinking of the American-British Empire.” Read Louise Uwacu's life-changing lessons; they are all nonfiction! For all those who aspire to win the WRITE war or to move on to better, you are guaranteed to come out of this read stirred by boundless fresh new ideas. Welcome to The WRITIVIST* journey.
