Peer Mentor Companion Marni Sanft, Michael Jensen, Eldon McMurray

Many First-Year Experience and Student Success programs use peer mentors to support instructors and to provide a peer-to-peer voice as students transition into college. This unique text prepares upper-class students to work directly with first-year students in a Student Success or First-Year Experience course, an Orientation Program, or as a Resident Advisor. The text outlines the best practices for implementing a peer mentor program on campus, provides instructors with a core text that illustrates what a peer mentor is and how to train students to be peer mentors. With nearly a decade of experience training peer mentors for a large first-year experience program, the authors use this experience to provide case studies in every chapter to depict real-life problems that mentors will encounter. Also look for application projects, readings, exercises, and journal entries that encourage students to reflect on their own experiences and discuss their experiences with other students.

Sheila Collins:

As a university student exactly feel bored in order to reading. If their teacher expected them to go to the library or make summary for some reserve, they are complained. Just minor students that has reading's spirit or real their pastime. They just do what the professor want, like asked to go to the library. They go to generally there but nothing reading seriously. Any students feel that reading is not important, boring and can't see colorful pics on there. Yeah, it is being complicated. Book is very important for you personally. As we know that on this period of time, many ways to get whatever we want. Likewise word says, many ways to reach Chinese's country. Therefore this Peer Mentor Companion can make you sense more interested to read.
